Whose Voice? Narratives in the History of Health and Social Care

Friday 3rd April 2009 09.45-16.15

Glenside Campus, Faculty of Health and Life Sciences, University of the West of England, Bristol

The 2008 review of the National Health Service by Lord Darzi has been described as a 'once in a generation opportunity' to effect change. The aim of this conference is to consider historical narratives of health and social care from providers, practitioners and consumers across several generations. To this purpose narratives will encompass a variety of data including written, oral and audiovisual material. This will enable participants to consider the experiences of health and social care before and after the inception of the post 1945 Welfare State.

Plenary Speakers:

Professor Joanna Bornat, The Open University

Dr. Flurin Condrau, Centre for the History of Science, Technology and Medicine, University of Manchester

Concurrent Sessions from:

Robin Means, Christine Hallett, service user perspectives and lots more.
