

ONLINE Resources for History of Health Care

RESEARCH

JSTOR	https://www.jstor.org/ (best reached through a university or library account)
Project Muse	https://muse.jhu.edu/ (best reached through a university or library account)
PubMed Central	https://www.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/pmc/
Google Scholar	https://scholar.google.com/
Reading Early Medicine	https://reademed.mpiwg-berlin.mpg.de/
American Historical Newspapers	https://guides.library.cornell.edu/newspapers (see links on R side)
EMROC	https://emroc.hypotheses.org/
Hathi Trust	https://www.hathitrust.org/

STYLE

Purdue Owl <https://owl.purdue.edu/>

When writing always follow the instructions specific to the journal for which you are writing.

ADDITIONAL RESOURCES

Many universities and libraries have online collections or have extensive exhibits available for the public. Your best way to discover these is through your local or university librarian. They range from online talks to displays of information about selected topics and can often be found through a good search engine. These are generally free. Here are some examples:

University of Chester, UK

<https://www1.chester.ac.uk/health-and-social-care/historical-society/past-events>

University of Virginia Center for Nursing Historical Inquiry

<https://www.nursing.virginia.edu/nursing-history/>

University of Pennsylvania Center for the Study of Nursing History

<https://www.nursing.upenn.edu/nhhc/>

Midwest Nursing History Research Center

<https://nursing.uic.edu/nursing-research/centers-labs-interest-groups/midwest-nursing-history-research-center/>

New York Public Library Digital Collections

<https://digitalcollections.nypl.org/>

Johns Hopkins History of Medicine

<https://hopkinshistoryofmedicine.org/>